B.D. Karve Award

Citation

On the occasion of the 51st Institute Day Programme of Karve Institute of Social Service, it is our privilege to honour Dr. Vandana Chakrabarti with the B.D. Karve Award.

This award is given in recognition of her outstanding contribution to social work education, literacy education for adults and training of practitioners. The Institute places on record its appreciation for Dr. Chakrabarti's substantial contribution as a teacher, an administrator, researcher, and as a member of several important committees.

As a member of Committees at the University, State and National Levels she has contributed significantly for developing guidelines for curriculum in Adult and Continuing Education and Population Education. She has also been instrumental in initiating and shaping the direction of post graduate training in Social Work and in Non Formal Education and Development at SNDT University.

She has contributed to the practice field through the conceptualisation and implementation of literacy development, social education, vocational training programmes and campaigns on various issues of contemporary relevance. Her expertise and commitment have been major assets in the managerial roles she has performed during her tenures in responsible positions that she has occupied at the University.

As an administrator within her University and as a member of the NAAC Peer Team she has been recognized as one committed to quality audits in higher education.

Her outputs as a researcher evaluating numerous national level programmes, involvement in policy making task committees have been significant. With a substantial volume of published works including study based papers in books, journals and preparation of manuals she has influenced the thinking of practitioners, professional trainees and educators in the field of social development
